A clear glass bottle of Roku Japanese Craft Gin is nestled in a basket filled with vibrant green tea leaves. The bottle's label is partially visible, showing the brand name and 'THE JAPANESE CRAFT GIN'. The bottle has a textured, embossed design on its surface, including a circular floral motif and the Japanese characters '緑茶' (Ryokucha). The background is a dense, lush green, creating a natural and fresh atmosphere.

Roku is the Japanese Craft Gin by the House of Suntory. It is meticulously crafted with six unique Japanese Botanicals. At the peak of summer, Sencha Tea and Gyokuro Tea are harvested and distilled.

These premium green teas still come from a traditional tea house in Japan. Gyokuro, the green tea grown and harvested in shade, lends a soft umami earthiness to Roku.
